

Pastor's Corner

Overwhelmed, grateful, shaken, hopeful – all of it at once!

A few days ago I wrote a letter 'from my heart' to my people on the occasion of the Pearl Jubilee. Today, ten days later, days before my birthday, it would be appropriate if I said a letter 'from my blocked heart'. I had to undergo a heart procedure right before my birthday... that is like a second chance in the most literal sense. It makes total sense to feel overwhelmed, grateful, shaken, hopeful—all of it at once.

Just days ago, my heart was found to be in danger—something unseen, serious, and mercifully discovered in time. What felt like an ordinary appointment turned out to be providential. A blockage I didn't know I was carrying was opened, and with it, a future that could have closed quietly was given room to continue. I celebrate this year with deeper gratitude—for life, for timing, for the hands and decisions that helped protect a heart still meant to beat.

Ten days before my birthday, I learned how fragile and how protected life can be at the same time. A visit I almost didn't think much of led to a discovery that likely saved my life. A 90% blockage, an angioplasty, a stent; and suddenly my birthday feels less like a marker of age and more like a marker of grace. I step into this new year aware, humbled, and grateful—for providence that intervened, and for a heart that has been given more time to live and love.

O Lord, You have been my refuge and my strength. In Your hand You have preserved my heart and opened a way when danger was near. I lift my voice in thanksgiving for this day of life, for the mercy that meets me at every turn. I thank you Jesus, the Great Physician, for guiding the hands and decisions that protected my heart. I enter another year of my life not by my own strength, but by grace, entrusting my life more fully to Him who gives and sustains it.

I have always been a grateful person. Today again I give thanks to God for the gift of my life and vocation; but this time it is extra special because God saw the peril hidden in my heart and made a way for healing. I recall the happy memories and thank God for my precious life, the many blessings, and the numerous wonderful people who have entered my life and enriched me. The Lord has been my shepherd through another year, and I am thankful.

Editorial

J. Pulinthanath, SDB

On the occasion of the Pearl Jubilee, Bishop Lumen's message invites the Diocese to look ahead with hope and responsibility. By emphasizing faith formation, promotion of vocations, and care for our common home as key priorities, he calls the People of God to transform shared dreams into concrete action for the future of the Diocese.

Of 'Collective Dreams' and 'Unfinished Projects'!

On the occasion of the 30th anniversary of our Diocese, Bishop Lumen has shared a reflective and forward-looking message with the faithful through a pastoral communiqué entitled "On the 30th Anniversary of the Diocese: Bishop Speaks to his People." In this message, the Bishop looks back with gratitude on the journey of the Diocese, acknowledges the challenges and blessings encountered along the way, and invites the People of God to renew their commitment to the mission entrusted to us. His words serve both as a moment of thanksgiving and as a call to move ahead with hope, unity, and deeper faith as we step into the future together.

Of particular significance in the Bishop's message is the section devoted to the Diocese's "collective dreams" and "unfinished projects." He identifies three priority areas that demand our common attention and commitment: faith formation, the promotion of vocations to the priesthood and religious life, and responsible care for our common home.

The Bishop's emphasis on faith formation as the foremost priority for the future is both timely and perceptive. Over the past thirty years, the Diocese has grown from modest beginnings to a stage of encouraging maturity. This very growth now calls for a more systematic, well-planned, and sustained approach to faith formation, especially for children and young people. While the challenges in this field are many and complex, they cannot be allowed to discourage us, for faith formation lies at the heart of our vocation to be true and credible witnesses of the Good News.

The promotion of vocations to the priesthood and religious life presents another set of challenges, particularly in the context of shrinking family sizes and the pervasive influence of a secular, consumerist, and materialistic culture, even in the remotest corners of our state. Yet, this area is not without signs of hope. The recent ordination of three young men from our State is a heartening reminder that the Lord continues to call and that generous responses are still possible. At the same time, this hopeful sign urges us towards a more focused and collaborative effort to nurture and promote local vocations.

The third priority, care for our common home, places the Diocese firmly within a global movement of concern for the planet and for the consequences of human insensitivity towards creation. With its various pro-environment and "go green" initiatives, the Diocese has already taken commendable steps in this direction. The urgency of ecological responsibility lends special relevance to this priority and challenges us to remain vigilant, creative, and committed in safeguarding the gift of creation.

As the Diocese celebrates its Pearl Jubilee, it is indeed commendable that our shepherd has clearly identified these focus areas for the road ahead. The insights drawn from thirty years of pastoral leadership merit our serious reflection and wholehearted response. This Jubilee year invites every member of the Diocese to join hands with Bishop Lumen, so that these "collective dreams" and "unfinished projects" may be transformed into living and lasting realities for the future of our local Church.

Pope Leo's Prayer to St. Francis of Assisi

Saint Francis, our brother, you who eight hundred years ago went to meet Sister Death as a man at peace, intercede for us before the Lord.

You recognized true peace in the Crucifix of San Damiano,
teach us to seek in Him the source of all reconciliation that breaks down every wall.

You who, unarmed, crossed the lines of war and misunderstanding, give us the courage to build bridges
where the world raises up boundaries.

In this time afflicted by conflict and division, intercede for us so that we may become peacemakers:
unarmed and disarming witnesses of the peace that comes from Christ.
Amen.
